

Ochre Yard is the location of a new apartment development on the south bank of the Tyne. Covering 15 acres, the site principally made up of derelict railway sidings and sheds provides Bellway with a unique location and opportunity to develop a range of dwellings to the highest design and build quality. The scheme will include 608 residential apartments in large apartment blocks, as well as a commercial centre comprising a health, fitness, leisure club and 80-bed hotel. Ochre Yard is the natural progression to the development of Gateshead Quays which more recently has seen the opening of the Millennium Bridge and The Baltic Arts Centre.
